Medical coverage

You are covered through the Zurich Business Travel Out-of-

Country Medical Plan while travelling for Intuit and when you extend that travel (for up to 7 days) for personal reasons before or after a business trip. If you're in an accident or become ill, the plan may cover the cost of your care in the country in which you receive treatment.

Your dependent spouse or domestic partner and your children (up to age 26) travelling with you outside their country of residence or permanent assignment while you are covered under the policy are also covered for up to 365 consecutive days (per trip).

How it works

If you have a medical or security emergency or a travel-related issue when travelling on business, call Anvil Assist:

- U.S. and Canada: 1-650-228-0596
- All other countries: +44 (0) 203 325 5111

You can also email them for less urgent inquiries.

When you call, reference Intuit. You will be asked eligibility and verification questions along with questions about the incident and the support you require.

To ensure you are fully supported by Anvil, Intuit, and any relevant third-party insurers or assistance providers involved in your care, you'll need to provide verbal consent for any needed medical assistance, which will be documented and shared only as needed to provide care and support and to process your claim.

How it works

Travel accident insurance

If you're seriously injured or die in an accident while travelling on Intuit business, your travel accident coverage through Zurich may pay a benefit to you or your beneficiary. You're covered if you're in an accident while travelling by train, plane, car, or other forms of public and private transportation, subject to the terms and conditions of the policy.

How it works

If you suffer an accidental death or dismemberment, this coverage may pay you or your beneficiaries 10 times your annual base salary (excluding overtime, bonuses, commissions, and any special compensation), not to exceed US$1 million, subject to the terms and conditions of the policy.

These benefits are in addition to any other insurance you may have at the time of the accident.

Find coverage details through the Zurich Medical and Business Travel Accident Summary.
